RADA was founded in 1904 by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, a famous actor and manager. Tree believed that there was a need for a drama school that would train actors in the classical tradition. RADA's first home was in Gower Street, London. In 1920, the school moved to its current location in Bloomsbury.

RADA has a long and distinguished history of training actors for the stage and screen. Alumni of RADA include some of the most famous actors in the world, including Anthony Hopkins, Judi Dench, and Ian McKellen. RADA has also been the setting for some of the most famous plays in history, including Hamlet, Macbeth, and King Lear.

RADA offers a variety of courses, from undergraduate degrees to postgraduate diplomas. The school's undergraduate degrees are designed to provide students with a well-rounded education in the art of acting. Students will study a variety of subjects, including acting, voice, movement, and stagecraft.

RADA's postgraduate diplomas are designed to provide students with specialized training in a particular area of acting. The school offers diplomas in acting, musical theatre, and directing.

In addition to its courses, RADA also offers a variety of workshops and masterclasses. These workshops and masterclasses are led by some of the world's leading actors and directors.

The audition process at RADA is highly competitive. The school receives thousands of applications each year, and only a small number of those applicants are offered a place.

The audition process typically consists of three stages:

1. The preliminary audition is an online audition. Applicants are asked to submit a video recording of themselves performing a monologue.
2. The recall audition is a live audition. Applicants are asked to perform a monologue and a scene.
3. The final audition is a two-day audition. Applicants are asked to perform a monologue, a scene, and an improvisation.

The audition process is designed to assess applicants' acting skills, potential, and commitment to the profession. RADA is looking for actors who are talented, passionate, and hard-working.

Student life at RADA is vibrant and stimulating. The school has a strong sense of community, and students are encouraged to participate in a variety of extracurricular activities.

RADA has a number of student societies, including the Drama Society, the Musical Theatre Society, and the Film Society. The school also has a number of sports teams, including the football team, the rugby team, and the cricket team.

RADA is located in the heart of London, which provides students with access to a wide range of cultural activities. The school is also close to a number of theatres and cinemas.

Graduates of RADA have gone on to have successful careers in the acting profession. Alumni of RADA have won numerous awards, including Academy Awards, Golden Globes, and BAFTAs.

RADA graduates are also well-represented in the theatre and film industries. They have appeared in some of the most famous plays and films of all time.

If you are an aspiring actor, RADA may be the perfect place for you to train. The school offers a world-class education, and its graduates have a proven track record of success in the acting profession.
