As night fell, Toby started to get scared. He was all alone in the dark woods, and he didn't know what to do. He huddled under a tree for warmth and tried to sleep, but he kept waking up, afraid that something was going to get him.

The next morning, Toby woke up and started walking again. He was tired and hungry, but he was determined to find his way home. He walked for hours, but he just kept getting more and more lost.

Finally, Toby came to a clearing. In the middle of the clearing was a small cottage. Toby ran to the cottage and knocked on the door. An old woman answered the door, and Toby told her that he was lost.

The old woman took pity on Toby and let him in. She gave him some food and a place to sleep. Toby was so grateful to the old woman for her kindness.

The next morning, Toby woke up and said goodbye to the old woman. He thanked her for her help, and then he set off on his journey home.

Toby walked for hours, but he finally found his way back to his village. He was so happy to be home, and he was so grateful to the old woman who had helped him.

Toby Carton's journey home was a long and perilous one, but he never gave up hope. He kept walking, even when he was tired and hungry. He never lost faith that he would eventually find his way home.
